Preemption by Any Other Name
Words and Phrases Indicating Preemptive Intent

Preemption is a legal doctrine that provides that a higher level of government may limit, or even eliminate, the power of a lower level of government to regulate a certain issue. Federal laws can preempt state and local laws, and state laws can preempt local laws. Laws can use different words to signify preemption. It is important for public health advocates to be able to spot preemptive intent in proposed laws. Here are some examples of laws that contain the more common words or phrases that demonstrate preemptive intent:

Consistent with: “[A]ny order or ordinance by any political subdivision shall be consistent with and not more restrictive than state law and regulations governing lending or deposit taking entities regulated by the division of finance or the division of credit unions.”

Do not exceed: “A State or a political subdivision of a State may impose prohibitions or restrictions upon the movement in interstate commerce of . . . plants, biological control organisms, plant pests, noxious weeds, or plant products that are consistent with and do not exceed [federal] regulations or orders. . . .”

Exclusive: “The department has exclusive regulatory authority over all hazardous waste generation, transportation, storage, treatment and disposal and other management practices in the state[.]”

Matters of statewide concern: “The general assembly further declares that the licensing and regulation of massage parlors are matters of statewide concern. . . .”

New policies preemting local or state regulation can have a profound effect on public health, and language indicating “preemptive intent” can appear in many different forms. This fact sheet is designed to help advocates spot preemptive intent so that they can address it as new policies are negotiated.
No more stringent: “[N]o political subdivision may enact an ordinance . . . that regulates the sale, purchase, purchase delay, transfer, ownership, use, keeping, possession, bearing, transportation, licensing, permitting, registration or taxation of any firearm or part of a firearm, . . . unless the ordinance or resolution is the same as or similar to, and no more stringent than, a state statute.”

Occupy the field: “[I]t is the intent of the Legislature to occupy the whole field of health and sanitation standards for retail food facilities, and the standards set forth in this part and regulations adopted pursuant to this part shall be exclusive of all local health and sanitation standards relating to retail food facilities.”

Preempt (and variations thereof): “[T]his part preempts the laws of any State to the extent that such laws are inconsistent with this part . . .”

Restrictive: “Local laws and ordinances that are inconsistent with, more restrictive than, or exceed the requirements of state law shall not be enacted and are preempted and repealed . . .”

Sole authority: “The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission shall have sole authority to control and regulate all aspects of hunting, fishing, and boating in all water conservation districts. . . .”

Supersede: “The provisions of this act shall supersede any other statute, municipal ordinance and rule or regulation adopted pursuant to law concerning smoking in an indoor public place or workplace . . .” Uniform: “For the purposes of equitable and uniform regulation and implementation, the Legislature through this chapter is the exclusive regulator of all matters relating to the distribution, marketing, promotion, and sale of tobacco products.”
